

Career Education Consumer Report

Description: Learn how to navigate Michigan's Internet based Career Education Consumer Report. The CECR will help you discover careers that can be right for you; career education programs available and training costs. The CECR is like having your own career counselor to help you find the best opportunities to get the new skills you want for your next job or career.

Individuals can use the system to explore career options, find out what additional training may be necessary, and identify actual programs of study that suit their career development interests.

Parents can use the system to stimulate their student's interest in career exploration, help their students select appropriate post-secondary education and training programs, and evaluate the performance of programs prior to making an enrollment decision.

Guidance Counselors can use the Report to engage students in the process of investigating career options and creating a meaningful written career plan.

Whether you are a student, parent, or guidance counselor, the report can help you build a stronger connection between education and career success.
